Raw materials

In the overview of the raw materials, the raw material specifications of the suppliers are adopted. By linking the specified ingredients to the company-specific ingredient table, the information can ultimately be used for calculations.

Sub-products

With sub-products, you can relate the raw materials to recipes.

End products

In the end product overview, the (sub) recipes of the company are combined into the desired end product. All ingredients, allergens, nutritional values, and countries of origin are automatically calculated to produce a correct label.

Additional functionality of iMIS Food SpecCheck

For the entire system, all actions are recorded in the system.

- Overview of allergens within the company
- Copying completed datasheets
- Create your own Word templates
- Define your own intranet export
- Define your own allergen profiles
- Define product variants yourself
- Configurable export functionality to other systems
- Import function of raw material and recipe structure
- It is also possible to directly create and fill product labels with the iMIS Food SpecCheck information

iMIS Food Intranet
